

University College Roosevelt

Drawing in the 21st Century

This fine arts course explores drawing as a permanently developing form of contemporary art practice. The course will take as its starting point divergent approaches to drawing. In the form of workshops, led by internationally acclaimed artists, a variety of approaches to drawing will be explored, and assumptions about the uses and practice of drawing will be challenged. The course thus offers students the opportunity to explore drawings' potential; not just as an aesthetically driven activity, but also as a tool for communicating theoretical concepts and personal ideas. The course will offer possibilities to work with a number of practitioners representing a range of artistic practices.

University College Roosevelt (UCR) is an International Honors College of Utrecht University, based in Middelburg, a city in the province of Zeeland, the Netherlands. The UCR campus is in fact the inner city of Middelburg. Right in the town's historical center, overlooking the market square, is the main teaching hall (formerly known as the Stadhuis, the town hall) which also houses faculty and staff members. UCR's campus is often called "Campus by the Sea" because of its close proximity to the North Sea and its beaches. The main shopping streets and local nightlife are within walking distance from campus. Other facilities, such as restaurants, the library and the bus and train station, are all within a fifteen-minute walk from the dorms. More information on the student campus in Middelburg can be found on the website of Utrecht Summer School.

If you are interested in this creative arts course, apply now via <http://www.utrechtsummerschool.nl/>. The application deadline is May 15th. Applications are considered on an ongoing basis.

COURSE DIRECTOR: Dr. J.H. Bloemsma

PERIOD: 01-07-2013 - 05-07-2013

CREDITS: 2.0 ECTS + Certificate of Attendance

COURSE FEE: € 350 (Course + course materials)

HOUSING (OPTIONAL): € 140-160 depending on accommodation type.

Available on request via summerschool@ucr.nl

MORE INFORMATION: www.utrechtsummerschool.nl